An online game developer was caught sending a threatening message to a woman's dad on Facebook earlier this month. Police are now working to identify the mother of the victim after her husband notified them of the threat.. Chris Evert, 33, was charged with fourth degree threatening. Evert is a video producer with a web design experience in the San Francisco Bay area. He recently created what he said was his first game, My Love Is Not Enough, which was released in April to positive reviews from critics. Evert also created My Game of the Week with games like Dead Rising and Dead Evolution, another shooter game with a genre similar to The Walking Dead..
